
WIPO – new webpage on IP Policies for universities and research institutions

The World Intellectual Property Organization has launched a new website on IP Policies for Universities & Research Institutions, together with the IP policies database. With these new resources, WIPO aims to support universities and research institutions in disseminating the knowledge they generate and to have that knowledge used in the economic sector.

Find out more about this new initiative soon with the next European IPR Helpdesk bulletin, which will be published on January 18.
