Behind video games, there is an intricate bundle of technical and non-technical IP rights. With a rapidly evolving video game design, development and commercialisation landscape, the what and how to protect the IP of video games components can be a challenge.

Join this free live webinar of the European Patent Office (EPO) and the European Union Intellectual Property Office (EUIPO) to extend your knowledge on the topic and get to talk to the experts: The webinar features Stephan Hanne from the EUIPO's International Cooperation and Legal Affairs Department and Peter Verhoef from the European Patent Office. Alejandro Flores-Jiménez from the European Patent Academy of the EPO and Claire Durantou from the EUIPO Academy will participate as moderators.

There is no need to pre-register: To join the session, click on the live link you find under "Online registration form" on the very date.
